Pope Apologizes to Muslims

Explanation of remarks about Islam draws mixed response

VATICAN CITY | Some Muslim leaders accepted Pope Benedict XVI's explanation Sunday of his remarks on Islam and violence. Others said it wasn't enough, but cautioned followers against a violent backlash after attacks on churches in Palestinian areas and the slaying of a Catholic nun in Somalia.

The pontiff said he was "deeply sorry" his speech last week in Germany offended Muslims, particularly his quoting of a medieval text that characterized some of the teachings of Islam's founder as "evil and inhuman" and referred to spreading Islam "by the sword."

He said those words did not reflect his own opinions.

"I hope that this serves to appease hearts and to clarify the true meaning of my address, which in its totality was and is an invitation to frank and sincere dialogue, with great mutual respect," the pope said.

Seeking to placate spreading Muslim anger, Vatican officials previously said the pope held Islam in high esteem and stressed that the central thrust of his speech was to condemn the use of any religious motivation for violence, whatever the religion.

While Benedict expressed regret his speech caused hurt, he did not retract what he said or say he was sorry he uttered what proved to be explosive words. FRANCES D'EMILIO (AP)

I'll Ask the Chef If He Has Any Bananas

A Springfield, Mo., woman has asked the health department to allow her to take her pet monkey into restaurants as a service animal. Debby Rose says Richard, her bonnet macaque monkey, provides emotional support that allows her to overcome an anxiety disorder and go out in public places such as restaurants. Rose said the federal Americans With Disabilities Act should allow the practice. Health department officials met Friday with a service agency, the Southwest Center for Independent Living, which is acting as an agent for Rose. (AP)

'But I Really, Really Like Maine, Too'

Maine's tourism director is taking flak from a critic of his department for having a license plate that says, "I Love New York." The vanity plate, which Searsmont resident Lance Dutson claims is inappropriate, appears on an SUV jointly registered to Dann Lewis and his wife, Sherry, who drives the vehicle. Lewis said he and his wife used to live in New York and he was involved in its famous "I Love New York" campaign. He said his wife, a native New Yorker, got the plate sometime after the 9/11 attacks in a show of solidarity. Lewis says there's nothing wrong with the plate, and state development director Jack Cashman agrees. (EXPRESS)

When it comes to Guinness World Records, Marco Hort of Switzerland really sucks. That's him, stuffing 264 drinking straws into his mouth to set a new world record in Vienna on Sunday, during the "Guinness World Records Day" event at an amusement park. So, if you need someone to try out how 264 different beverages would taste if drunk simultaneously, Hort — whose Web site, Marcohort.com, is a hoot, by the way, even if it's not in English — is your guy. Two Daytona Beach, Fla., women suffered heatstroke after locking themselves in a car, WKMG-TV reported. The car battery died, failing the automatic locks — and the pair didn't know they could unlock doors manually, officials said. After two hours, the two wrote a plea for help on a tissue box, and a passer-by saw the note and got help. (EXPRESS)

Deal Possible on CIA Interrogations

White House hopeful for compromise with Republican senators

WASHINGTON | The Bush administration and holdout GOP senators expressed confidence on Sunday they could reach a compromise on rules for CIA interrogations of suspected terrorists.

Neither the president's national security aides nor some of the lawmakers who are resisting White House pressure would say how they can reconcile their deep differences after a week of public sparring.

As a result, it is unclear if Congress quickly can pass legislation authorizing aggressive methods against terrorist detainees, as President Bush wants. Congress is likely to adjourn in two weeks for the fall elections.

Bush says CIA personnel should be able to resume tough interrogation techniques to extract information from detainees. Several senators from his own party are standing in the way, seeking changes.

They say the United States must adhere strictly to international standards in the Geneva Conventions and that setting harsher ones could put U.S. troops at risk if they are captured.

McCain

"We have to hold the moral high ground," said Sen. John McCain of Arizona, one of the Republicans not satisfied with the White House proposal. "We don't think al-Qaeda will ever observe those conventions, but we're going to be in other wars."

McCain elaborated later Sunday at a reception in Concord, N.H., after helping kick off a NASCAR race about 10 miles away. One of the things that sustained Americans captured during the Vietnam War was the knowledge that "we come from a better nation with better values," McCain told about 70 people.

Girl, 10, Killed During Tornado in Minn. City

Hundreds of homes damaged as F2 storm sweeps through area

ROGERS, MINN. | A tornado swept through this Minnesota town, killing a 10-year-old girl, damaging hundreds of homes and scattering debris across the city, officials said Sunday.

The girl was at a neighbor's house with her 19-year-old brother when the it collapsed about 10 p.m. Saturday, Police Chief Keith Oldfather said.

"The roof is in the basement," Oldfather said after an aerial view of the damage Sunday morning.

He said 200 to 300 homes were significantly damaged in Rogers, a town 26 miles northwest of Minneapolis.

Six other people were injured, and two remained hospitalized Sunday morning.

The National Weather Service determined that the storm was an F2 tornado, with winds of 113 to 157 mph.

When the storm hit, 10-year-old Jaymi Wendt was with her older brother, who was baby-sitting three other children. One of the boys, 12-year-old Ryan Heibel, told the Star Tribune that everyone was on the first floor when suddenly there was a "huge boom." (AP)

5 Duquesne Athletes Shot

2 in critical condition as police seek gunman in on-campus attack

PITTSBURGH | Police searched for a man who shot five Duquesne basketball players on campus early Sunday after a dance at the student union, leaving at least two of them in critical condition.

Two players were walking near a dormitory and encountered a man who apparently had been disruptive at the dance, authorities said. The players tried to calm the man and walked away but were shot. Players who rushed to their aid were also shot.

The gunman and a group of people with him were not students, a university official said.

In critical condition were forward Sam Ashaolu of Toronto, a transfer from Lake Region State College and a cousin of former Houston Rockets star Hakeem Olajuwon; and Stuard Baldonado of Colombia, a transfer from Miami Dade College who was considered the school's best recruit.

Witnesses reported seeing two guns, said university President Charles Dougherty, but he couldn't confirm whether both were fired. The second gun was seen on someone in a group with the gunman, Dougherty said.

Six to 12 shots were fired, he said. He did not know what sparked the violence.

"The entire Duquesne University community is saddened and shocked," Dougherty said. "We're shocked because an event of this sort has never happened. It's a safe campus and known to be a safe campus." RAMESH SANTANAM (AP)

The crews from space shuttle Atlantis and the international space station bid farewell before undocking on Sunday. Atlantis is set to land in Florida on Wednesday.

Space Station Set for A Busy Travel Week

Atlantis bids farewell while Russians ready for overnight launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, FLA. | The international space station's three residents bade farewell to one set of houseguests Sunday and prepared for the arrival of more visitors.

The send-off of space shuttle Atlantis' six astronauts Sunday was the start of a week of heavy traffic at the space station, the equivalent of rush hour in space.

A Russian Soyuz vehicle ferrying two new station crew members and the first female space tourist was set to launch overnight, followed by the departure of a Russian cargo ship from the station on Monday. The Soyuz was scheduled to arrive at the station early Wednesday, and Atlantis was set to land at the Kennedy Space Center later that day.

Early Sunday, pilot Chris Ferguson carefully eased Atlantis through a tight corridor away from the station so the crew could take photos of the crew's handiwork — a newly expanded station. (AP)

Feds, N.Y. OK Deal at WTC Site

Government officials agree to rent half of Freedom Tower space

NEW YORK | Federal and state officials have agreed to rent half of the Freedom Tower when it opens in about five years at the World Trade Center site — sealing one part of an elaborate deal that would, if finalized, divide control of what to build there.

The federal General Services Administration and the state Office of General Services signed agreements last week to rent 1.1 million of the Freedom Tower's 2.6 million square feet of office space, officials announced Sunday. The 15-year leases include space for the governor's office and the U.S. Customs and Border Protection office that once occupied one of the smaller buildings in the trade center complex.

The pact is one of several needed to secure a final deal this week with developer Larry Silverstein and the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, the government agency that leased the twin towers to Silverstein six weeks before they were destroyed on Sept. 11, 2001. The agency hopes to vote on the deal at a Thursday board meeting. (AP)

Girl's Text Leads to Arrest

A day after message aids in rescue, police nab abduction suspect

LUGOFF, S.C. | A man suspected of kidnapping a 14-year-old girl and keeping her in an underground bunker was arrested Sunday, surrendering without a fight along a highway after eluding police for months with an elaborate system of hideouts and tunnels.

Investigators arrested Vinson Filyaw in Richland County about 24 hours after rescuing Elizabeth Shoaf, who had sent a text message to her mother on Filyaw's phone while he was asleep, said Sheriff Steve McCaskill.

Shoaf had been missing for 10 days and was rescued Saturday from a booby-trapped bunker 15 feet underground.

Filyaw, 37, will be charged with kidnapping, possession of an incendiary device and impersonating an officer, McCaskill said. He said more charges likely will come after investigators interview Shoaf on Monday.

"The big relief was when we found Elizabeth Shoaf alive and well," McCaskill said. "But it is a great relief when you get a criminal of this type out of society and behind bars."

Shoaf was found about a mile from her home, hidden in a 15-foot-deep hole carved out of the side of a hill and covered with plywood. The bunker had a hand-dug privy with toilet paper, a camp stove and shelves made with cut branches and canvas.

Sheriff's Capt. David Thomley said the bunker was the fourth discovered since they began looking for Filyaw. Authorities believe Filyaw dug all of them.

McCaskill said the girl appeared to be unharmed but was taken to Kershaw County Medical Center for evaluation. JEFFREY COLLINS (AP)

24 Die in Wave of Kirkuk Bombings

Attacks on northern Iraqi city occur amid debate over federation

KIRKUK, IRAQ | Six bombs killed 24 people and wounded 84 Sunday in Kirkuk, a northern oil city the Kurds want added to their self-ruled region. The violence came as politicians argued over federation legislation that a Sunni Arab party warned could tear Iraq apart.

The tortured bodies of 15 people were found elsewhere, probable victims of worsening sectarian reprisals, and the U.S. military announced that a sailor assigned to the Marines died Saturday from wounds suffered during combat in Iraq's restive Anbar province.

A joint U.S.-Iraqi operation in Diwaniyah rounded up 32 people suspected of terrorism. The city was the site of a recent clash between the mostly Shiite Iraqi army and a Shiite militia in fighting that killed 23 soldiers and 50 other people.

TREACHEROUS PATH: Iraqi army soldiers and residents carry a body of a person killed in a suicide car bomb attack in the northern city of Kirkuk, Iraq, on Sunday.

There was no indication who was behind the bombings in Kirkuk, a city 180 miles north of Baghdad that lies in the center of Iraq's vast northern oil fields and is the subject of rival claims by the region's Arabs, Kurds and Turkomen.

The worst assault involved a suicide truck bomb that exploded in the city center, killing 18 and wounding 55. A few hours later, a suicide car bomb rammed into a joint U.S.-Iraqi army patrol in the south of the city, killing at least three bystanders and wounding eight people.

Two roadside bombs and two parked car bombs went off in other parts of the city, killing three.

Thousands of Kurds were forced to flee the Kirkuk area during Saddam Hussein's regime, which pursued an "Arabization" campaign to force out ethnic Kurds and Turkomen. Kurds now want to incorporate Kirkuk into their autonomous region, an idea that has been caught up in the heated debate over the proposal to transform Iraq into a federate state. (AP)

Iraqi News Photographer Held by Military

NEW YORK | The U.S. military in Iraq has imprisoned an Associated Press photographer for five months, accusing him of being a security threat but never filing charges or permitting a public hearing.

Military officials said Bilal Hussein, an Iraqi citizen, was being held for "imperative reasons of security" under United Nations resolutions. AP executives said the news cooperative's review of Hussein's work did not find anything to indicate inappropriate contact with insurgents, and any evidence against him should be brought to the Iraqi criminal justice system.

The U.S. military said Hussein was captured with two insurgents.

Hussein proclaims he is not guilty, said his Iraqi lawyer, Badie Arief Izzat, and believes he has been unfairly targeted because his photos from Ramadi and Fallujah were deemed unwelcome by the coalition forces. (AP)

Gunmen Kill Italian Nun at Somali Hospital

Attack may be linked to Muslim anger over pope's recent remarks

MOGADISHU, SOMALIA | An Italian nun who devoted her life to helping the sick in Africa was fatally shot by two gunmen at a hospital Sunday in an attack possibly linked to Muslim anger toward Pope Benedict XVI.

Sister Leonella, 65, was shot in the back four times by pistol-wielding attackers as she left the Austrian-run S.O.S. hospital at lunchtime after finishing nursing school for trainee medics. Her bodyguard was also slain.

There was no claim of responsibility for the attack, which came just hours after a leading Somali cleric condemned the pope's remarks last week on Islam and violence.

much of southern Somalia, Yusuf Mohamed Siad, said one man had been arrested and the second was being hunted. He said the killing might have stemmed from the uproar over the pope but stressed he didn't know for sure.

The Vatican called the killing a "horrible episode," and Italian President Giorgio Napolitano denounced it as a "horrendous crime." MOHAMED SHEIKH NOR (AP)

Darfur Plan Stirs Protest

Sudanese groups voice discontent with U.N. amid worldwide rallies

KHARTOUM, SUDAN | Sudanese nongovernmental organizations on Sunday protested against the deployment of U.N. peacekeepers in Darfur as activities around the globe were held to call for the protection of civilians in the conflict-racked area.

Protesters adopted the Sudanese government's stance against international peacekeepers in western Sudan that President Omar al-Bashir reiterated Sunday in Havana, where he was attending the nonaligned summit.

Human rights, aid relief and peace groups planned rallies, concerts, exhibitions and marches around the world Sunday to mobilize support for measures to end the fighting and humanitarian crisis that erupted in 2003.

Women in Khartoum rally against a proposal to send U.N. troops to Darfur.

In Khartoum, some 150 people participated in the march from outside government offices to those of the United Nations. There they delivered a message addressed to U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan denouncing Security Resolution 1706, which calls for beefing up the African Union force in Darfur and transferring its control to the U.N.

In the letter, protesters expressed their "strong opposition to the Resolution and to the deployment of international forces."

The head of the Sudanese Council of Voluntary Associations, Ibrahim Mohamed Ibrahim, spoke to protesters vowing to "resist any military intervention in the Sudan."

Demonstrators chanted anti-U.S. and anti-U.N. slogans and carried placards that read "Down, Down USA" and "No to resolution 1706."

The conflict in Darfur began in February 2003, when ethnic African tribes revolted against the Khartoum government, which was accused of unleashing Arab militiamen blamed for the worst atrocities. At least 200,000 people have died and more than 2 million people have been displaced. (AP)

Slim Victory for Swedish Opposition

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN | A center-right opposition vowing to streamline Sweden's famed welfare state ousted the Social Democratic government in a close parliamentary election Sunday, ending 12 years of leftist rule in the Nordic nation.

Prime Minister Goran Persson said his Cabinet would resign after the Social Democratic Party's worst election result in decades.

With 99.7 percent of districts counted, the four-party opposition alliance led by Fredrik Reinfeldt had 48.1 percent of the votes, compared with 46.2 percent for the Social Democrats and their two supporting parties.

Reinfeldt

"It was teamwork that helped us win," Reinfeldt said in a victory speech to jubilant supporters in downtown Stockholm.

Persson said Sweden's social model — a market economy blended with a high-tax welfare state — was at stake in the election. However, the opposition led by Reinfeldt's Moderate Party insisted it would not dismantle the system but help it survive by promoting jobs over welfare handouts. (AP)

HOT FLASHES NIGHT SWEATS

*The words are uncomfortable enough.
The feeling is worse!*

Hot flashes that occur during the day or at night are a common post-menopausal complaint. You wake up drenched, then you freeze; or strangers in the grocery ask if you're OK.

A NON-HORMONAL investigational medication is now being tested to see if it can help control HOT FLASHES.

If you are at least 40 years old, experience multiple HOT FLASHES and NIGHT SWEATS each week, had your last period at least 6 months ago and are prepared NOT to use hormone therapy or antidepressants during this 12-week study, call today to see if you qualify to participate.

As a study participant you may be compensated for your travel, and receive at no cost, physical exam, EKG, and study-related lab tests.

French U.N. troops buy Lebanese flags in the village of Deir Kifa, where their battalion will be based. A U.N.-brokered cease-fire ended the 34-day Israeli-Hezbollah war.

Israelis Approve War Investigation

Cabinet OKs limited probe into handling of conflict in Lebanon

JERUSALEM | The Israeli Cabinet authorized an inquiry Sunday into the government's handling of the recent war in Lebanon in a move that fell short of growing demands for the establishment of a sweeping, state commission that would have the power to fire top officials.

The inquiry, headed by a retired judge, will look at decisions made by political and military leaders before and during the 34-day war against Hezbollah guerrillas.

Prime Minister Ehud Olmert told the Cabinet that the inquiry would have investigative powers comparable to those of a state commission, however it will not be able to fire officials. The commission will only be able to make non-binding recommendations.

The Cabinet approved the inquiry by a 20-2 vote with one abstention, the government said.

Olmert, Defense Minister Amir Peretz, the government and the army have faced strong criticism for accepting a U.N.-brokered cease-fire without crushing the Hezbollah militia or winning the freedom of two soldiers captured by the Lebanese guerrilla group at the start of the fighting. Reservists called up for duty in Lebanon also have complained of poor preparation, conflicting orders and a lack of food and supplies.

Olmert had ruled out a full-blown state inquiry, claiming it would be too time-consuming and distract the army from its main responsibility of protecting the country. ARON HELLER (AP)

Hamas, Abbas Unity Talks Stall

RAMALLAH, WEST BANK | Coalition talks between Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas and the militant group Hamas have stalled over U.S. demands that a national unity government recognize Israel, Palestinian officials said Sunday.

The suspension of negotiations underscores the difficulty Abbas is having in trying to get Hamas to soften its anti-Israel ideology, a move that would pave the way for ending sanctions that are crippling the Palestinian economy.

Abbas will use a meeting this week with President Bush on the sidelines of the U.N. General Assembly session to try to win U.S. support for a coalition that doesn't fully meet international demands for a changed stance on Israel, Palestinian officials said. (AP)

Fire departments stage a first-ever drill on a Metro line under the Potomac, between Rosslyn and Foggy Bottom, on Sunday.

Metro Crisis Drill Gets 'C'

Drill simulates attack on a train in a tunnel under the Potomac

WASHINGTON | For its annual disaster drill Sunday, Metro wanted to devise the worst scenario possible: A bomb. In a train. In a long, deep tunnel. Under the Potomac. With the power and communications out, and seven different agencies trying to talk and work together.

To complicate matters, Metro wanted to keep real trains running, even past the "disaster" scene.

Using about 120 volunteer "victims" who rode an early morning Orange Line train out of Rosslyn, firefighters from the District and Virginia pulled off their "rescue" in about two hours on Sunday. Metro officials had hoped that by using a "rescue train" they would extricate the victims in about 45 minutes.

"I'd give us about a 'C,'" said Fred Goodine, Metro's assistant general manager for systems safety. "We put ourselves under pressure in a test we had never conducted before." Metro has been doing emergency drills since 1999, but never in an underwater tunnel.

Volunteers were generally complimentary about rescuers' performance.

Study: Bird Flu Would Kill Hundreds

FAIRFAX, VA. | A bird flu pandemic would kill nearly 700 people in Fairfax County, forcing hospitals, nursing homes and makeshift medical centers to set up temporary morgues and stockpile body bags, according to a new report.

"Life as you see it today will not be the same," health director Gloria Addo-Ayensu said in response to a 112-page primer on how the Washington area's largest local government would respond to such an outbreak.

Addo-Ayensu and other emergency management officials say Fairfax is the region's first local government to issue a comprehensive report on pandemic flu preparations.

The report comes amid fears that avian influenza, which is spreading worldwide in poultry and has infected more than 230 people, could mutate into a virulent strain that could spread from person to person, killing millions.

Although the Bush administration has released a federal plan and committed tens of millions of dollars to anticipate a crisis, the details of how to respond are left to state and local governments. (AP)

Eisenhower Memorial Site Expected to Be Approved

The site for a memorial to President Dwight D. Eisenhower has cleared a hurdle, with final approval expected this week. Planners are working on a design for the four-acre site to pay tribute to the nation's 34th president. Earlier this month, the National Capital Planning Commission approved the memorial location across the street from the National Mall, near the National Air and Space Museum. The Commission of Fine Arts is expected to endorse the site Thursday. (AP)

New York caps 17-point 4th-quarter comeback with overtime score

FOOTBALL | Eli Manning thrived under pressure, rallying the New York Giants to a stunning win on Sunday.

Manning brought the Giants back from a 17-point deficit in the fourth-quarter and threw a 31-yard touchdown pass to Plaxico Burress with 3:11 left in overtime for a 30-24 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles on Sunday.

On third-and-11 from the Eagles' 31, Manning avoided a blitz and lofted a pass to Burress, who outjumped Sheldon Brown to make the catch and get in the end zone.

On the winning drive, Eagles safety Brian Dawkins appeared to outfight Visanthe Shiancoe for the ball on Manning's pass to make an interception. But the play was ruled a catch for New York's tight end. Manning quickly ran off a play before the officials could replay it.

Dominated through the first three quarters, the Giants fought back and tied it on Jay Feely's 35-yard field goal with seven seconds left.

Manning overcame eight sacks and constant pressure to throw for 371 yards and three TDs. He tossed a 22-yard TD pass to Amani Toomer with 3:28 left in regulation to cut the deficit to 24-21.

After New York got the ball at its 20 with 56 seconds left and no timeouts remaining, Manning quickly drove the Giants to the Eagles 32. A personal foul penalty on defensive end Trent Cole moved the Giants 15 yards closer and set up Feely's tying kick.

The Giants (1-1) avoided an 0-2 start with a trip to play reigning conference champion Seattle up next. The Eagles (1-1) lost their seventh-straight game to an NFC East rival. ROB MAADDI (AP)

Casey Has It Easy at Match Play

A 10-and-8 win in the final match sends him home $1.88M richer

GOLF | The guy in a red shirt and a swoosh turned in a record-setting performance to win the World Match Play Championship on Sunday, just as everyone expected.

Paul Casey said his choice of apparel was merely a coincidence.

A tournament that began with Tiger Woods going for his sixth-straight victory ended with Casey plowing through everyone to capture the $1.88 million purse, the richest prize in golf, and send him to the Ryder Cup with the biggest win of his career.

Casey never trailed in his final 71 holes of a marathon week at Wentworth, winning the final five against Shaun Micheel for a 10-and-8 victory, the largest margin of the final match in the 43-year history of the HSBC World Match Play Championship.

"None of the matches were easy, even though the scores may not have reflected that," Casey said. (AP)

Bullpen Stellar in Nationals Victory

Four relievers work 5 scoreless innings in 6-1 win over Brewers

NATIONALS | Austin Kearns homered and hit the go-ahead single in the seventh to help the Washington Nationals beat the Milwaukee Brewers 6-1 Sunday.

Doug Davis (10-11) was perfect for the first 4 1/3 innings before Kearns hit his 23rd home run of the season to left field. In the seventh, Bernie Castro reached on an infield single, moved to second on a sacrifice by Felipe Lopez and scored when Kearns looped a single to shallow right field.

The Nationals added four runs in the eighth inning, including a three-run single by Lopez.

scoreless seventh to earn the win.

Nationals starter Mike O'Connor allowed one run and three hits before being pulled after four innings and 69 pitches. Chris Schroder relieved O'Connor and struck out all six batters he faced before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

O'Connor hit Prince Fielder with the first pitch of the second inning, then allowed singles to Kevin Mench and David Bell. Fielder scored the game's first run when Damian Miller hit a sacrifice fly to right field.

Davis befuddled Nationals hitters for most of the afternoon, striking out seven and walking none. But he got little help from the Brewers offense, which tied its season low with three hits. After the second inning, only three more Brewers runners reached base, but all were wiped out by double plays.

After Kearns' single gave the Nationals the lead in the seventh, Washington added four runs in the eighth to put the game away and clinch the series win. (AP)

Tejada's Timely Hitting Helps O's Avoid Sweep

ORIOLES | Miguel Tejada hit a tie-breaking single to spark a four-run 10th inning and help the Baltimore Orioles beat the Detroit Tigers 12-8 Sunday.

Brian Roberts led off the 10th with a single, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Tejada's hit. The Orioles added three more runs off Jason Grilli (2-3).

Chris Ray (2-3) pitched 2 1/3 innings and earned the win after blowing his fifth save in 36 opportunities.

Sean Casey tied it 8-8 in the eighth with a two-out, two-run homer on Ray's second pitch.

The Orioles, who had lost three straight and 14 of 18, got home runs from Chris Gomez, Nick Markakis, Melvin Mora and Kevin Millar.

United Shut Out In 1-0 Loss at Fire

Chicago's Herron finds the net in 62nd minute to down 1st-place D.C.

UNITED | Andy Herron scored his seventh goal of the season in the 62nd minute to give the Chicago Fire a 1-0 victory over D.C. United on Sunday.

Brian Plotkin sent the ball upfield to Herron, who fired a shot past United goalkeeper Troy Perkins. Plotkin entered the game in the 29th minute, replacing the injured Nate Jaqua.

D.C. United's Bryan Namoff

D.C. United's Joshua Gros was ejected from the game in the 88th minute, after a rough tackle on Thiago, who left the field holding a cloth to his face. Thiago was replaced by Jim Curtin.

Chicago (11-9-8) remains in second in the East. D.C. United (14-4-10) is first.

United announced the signing of the Ugandan national team forward Sunday. He is on loan from the Richmond Kickers. (AP)

Harvick Takes Early Lead in Chase

AUTO RACING | Kevin Harvick turned New Hampshire International Speedway into his personal playground, dominating Sunday's race to take the early lead in NASCAR's Chase for the championship.

Harvick, who started from the pole and paced almost every practice session, led 196 of the 300 laps to run away with the first round of the 10-race Chase. He moved to the top of the points standings for the first time in his career, and holds a 35-point lead over rookie Denny Hamlin, who finished fourth.

"We just have to keep doing what we're doing," Harvick said. (AP)

Ravens Dominate Again in Week 2

28 | 6

RAVENS | No shutout this time, yet there was little else the Baltimore Ravens' defense didn't accomplish against the inept Oakland Raiders.

The Ravens forced six turnovers, got a safety from Adalius Thomas and kept the Raiders out of the end zone Sunday in a 28-6 victory.

Matt Stover kicked four field goals for the Ravens (2-0), who were coming off a 27-0 rout of Tampa Bay. The only other time they opened with two victories was in 2000, the season they won their lone Super Bowl.

Oakland fell to 0-2 under Art Shell, whose quest to restore an air of respectability to the franchise is off to a dubious start. The Raiders, who got two field goals from Sebastian Janikowski, have now been outscored 55-6.

Quarterback Aaron Brooks was pulled with an injured right shoulder in the first quarter after twice fumbling snaps from center, turnovers that led to a pair of Stover field goals. The injury probably occurred while Brooks was trying to pounce on the ball near the line of scrimmage. DAVID GINSBURG (AP)

Blowout Drops Miami Out of Top 25

Notre Dame's 1st loss moves Auburn up to No. 2 behind Buckeyes

COLLEGE FOOTBALL | Miami is out of the rankings for the first time since 1999, and Auburn is the new No. 2 in The Associated Press Top 25.

The Hurricanes' latest lopsided loss — a 31-7 debacle at Louisville — ended a streak of 107 consecutive poll appearances that was the nation's longest current streak.

"That doesn't really change anything," Miami coach Larry Coker said. "The poll didn't help us yesterday and the poll won't help us tomorrow. Doesn't change anything."

With seven games matching ranked teams on Saturday, the poll got its first significant shake-up of the season.

Not at the very top, though, as

CHRIS GRAY/THEN/GETTY IMAGES

OVER THE TOP: Auburn beat LSU 7-3 to move up one spot in the rankings, to No. 2.

Ohio State remained No. 1 for the fourth straight week. The Buckeyes received 59 first-place votes from a panel of 65 media members.

Notre Dame's first loss of the season vacated a spot right behind Ohio State, and Auburn took advantage. The Tigers, who beat LSU 7-3, are the third team to hold the second spot in the Top 25 this season. (AP)

Zune Gets Into Tune

Microsoft is readying its big competitor to Apple's all-star iPod

MEDIA PLAYERS | Microsoft Corp.'s effort to compete against Apple's iPod juggernaut will focus on the idea that people want to be able to easily share music with friends and others.

The software maker said Thursday that its portable Zune media player, scheduled to be available around the holiday season, will include wireless technology to let people share some of their favorite songs, playlists or pictures with other Zune users who are close by. Those users can listen to the songs three times over three days before deciding whether to purchase the songs themselves.

"The idea is to legitimize peer-to-peer sharing in a healthy way that works for everybody," said J Allard, a Microsoft vice president in charge of the Zune product line.

Microsoft said the song-sharing capability will be available for most songs available through its forthcoming Zune Marketplace service, although some music publishers won't allow it.

The company did not disclose pricing or a specific launch date for the first Zune player. The device, to be made by Toshiba Corp., will have 30 gigabytes of memory (enough to hold about 7,500 songs), a 3-inch screen and a built-in FM tuner.

Microsoft's Zune Marketplace music service, designed to compete with Apple Computer Inc.'s iTunes store, will let users buy songs individually or listen to unlimited tracks for a flat subscription fee.

Analyst Phil Leigh with Inside Digital Media said he thinks Microsoft may be able to gain an edge by offering a subscription service. Other companies offer such unlimited purchase plans, but Apple doesn't. ALLISON LINN (AP)

Google's Earth Tool Digs Deeper

SAN FRANCISCO | Google Inc. has added more video and other bonus features for users of its popular 3-D mapping software to unearth even more information about destinations around the world.

The latest innovations are available to any computer with Google Earth software installed. Google says more than 100 million copies of the software have been downloaded since it was first offered to the general public last year.

Google Earth's latest attractions, activated by clicking on a "featured content" box, include online video of cities and popular tourist attractions.

The federal government also is providing details about all 58 U.S. national parks, and the United Nations is supplying time-stamped images documenting the environmental decay in 100 areas, including the Amazon and Africa. (AP)

THIS ROCKS! Moviegoers didn't rush to theaters this weekend, but those who showed up predominantly picked the Rock's football drama "Gridiron Gang." "The Black Dahlia" was No. 2 and the animated baseball flick "Everyone's Hero" came in third.

DEPENDENT WOMEN: Woods, center, thinks DK can stay at the top of the charts by putting the band ahead of personal egos.

Talk of the Pops

Danity Kane singer D. Woods wants to start a new movement

CONVERSATIONS | Just when it seemed like the drama was going to end in Diddy couch-jumping, the pop impresario's done it again. After sorting through hundreds of contestants on MTV's "Making the Band 3," he's presented a new quintet of R&B superheroines: Danity Kane. Their self-titled debut CD recently landed on the top of the charts, besting Outkast's and Christina Aguilera's new discs. One of the five leading ladies, D. Woods, discussed the group's strategy.

The real grind's just beginning. It's a different kind of grind, though; it's where we want to be. We got an album out of us and we're getting to reach people. We were in the bedroom with the hairbrush singing for so long.

You worked with a smorgasbord of top producers, from Rodney Jerkins to Timbaland. Timbaland is crazy! He goes in a room with a bunch of weird instruments and starts beating on and shaking stuff. You go out to get a bite to eat, get a drink and come back;

there's a track waiting for you and you're like, "This is fire!"

He tends to keep it in the club.

We have times when we go into the bedroom, but we have fans that are underage and we don't want to get into those types of things just yet.

For more of our interview with Woods, please visit readexpress.com

Have you been drawing comparisons?

We've been compared to the Pussycat Dolls or the Spice Girls. People are always going to compare, trying to make themselves familiar with whatever you are, but we — not knocking any of them — don't really want to be like anyone. ... We hope to be starting a new movement, a new way of looking at how girl bands can work together.

Meaning?

You can have five faces to the group and not just have one or two lead singers.

Was it hard meshing your sounds?

We have a very mature decision-making process where you have to be real with yourself. For instance, [the track] "Hold Me Down," I know that Andrea's voice fits that much better than mine. Sometimes the producers had specific visions and we just had to respect that.

Still, it has to get you down.

Anybody would feel that way because you want to do your best, to have a chance, but you learn how to deal with it for the greater good of the project. It's not personal.

A new generation of video games sends a Christian message

HIGH STAKES | The streets of New York have never looked so barren.

An occasional taxi or bus motors down a boulevard as people wander aimlessly among eerily vacant buildings. Soon, black helicopters loom overhead and armed soldiers close ranks on the streets below.

This isn't your run-of-the-mill video game: "Left Behind: Eternal Forces" is based on the best-selling "Left Behind" book series about the apocalypse.

The game's creators say they hope to wriggle into the multibillion-dollar mainstream video game market by offering a real-time strategy option for serious gamers. Yet, they believe the faith-based theme is important, too.

"What we've decided to do is embed our message in a game so that it's not overt but it is in the game," Left Behind Games President Jeffrey Frichner said. "We're not ashamed of it. There are Scriptures in the game and we're faithful to those Scriptures."

Analyst Michael Pachter, who follows the industry for Wedbush Morgan Securities Inc., has played "Eternal Forces" and said it probably will be well-received.

"They did a nice job," Pachter said. "In order for the game to hit the higher end of that range, I think they have to attract mainstream consumers who just want to play the game because it is a good game."

Set in New York, the game begins with smoldering landscapes, the eerie streets and wandering non-believers and evildoers. The object is to convert nonbelievers and ultimately prevent evil forces from taking over the world.

Since it was previewed in May at the Electronic Entertainment Expo in Los Angeles, "Eternal Forces" has drawn opposition from those who contend the violence goes against the Bible.

"It's reprehensible," said Florida attorney Jack Thompson, a critic of video game violence. "They're basically using the phrase 'Christian game' to disarm parents into thinking it's going to be OK for our kids."

Ralph Bagley, chief executive officer of video game maker N'LightningSoftwareDevelopment, believes there is a market for Christian video games waiting to be tapped.

"Even the youth pastor that runs the youth group, when he comes home and wants to play a game, he really doesn't want another Bible lesson thrown at him," said Bagley, who is also a spokesman for the Christian Game Developers Foundation. "He just wants to play a game." SANDY SHORE (AP)

TV Death Pool Eyes Fall Shows

THE AX | This is the time of year television executives go to sleep with visions of big hits in their heads — and get a reality check when they wake before dawn to check the ratings on their BlackBerrys.

A Web site connected to the Bravo network is playing to their nightmares. Brilliantbutcancelled.com is running a sweepstakes for fans to predict which of the 24 new series on broadcast networks this fall will be the first canceled.

The "Fall Season Death Watch 2006" game actually regenerates each week for nine weeks. Participants who guess the first show axed each week are entered into a sweepstakes to win a video iPod; everyone competes in weeks when no series bite the dust.

The Web site is an outgrowth of the Bravo program "Brilliant But Cancelled," which brings back to life good or groundbreaking television shows that did not last long.

By the end of last week, the show judged most likely to die was "Happy Hour," a Fox comedy about a suddenly single man and his party-hearty friend in Chicago.

Power-Pop Takes Off

Never mind local act the Hurricane Lamps — here's the Jet Age

MUSIC | What's a man to do when the lights get turned out for his band the Hurricane Lamps? If you're Eric Tischler, you grab one of your old band mates and take flight as the Jet Age.

This new band, with singer/guitarist Tischler, former Lamps bassist Greg Bennett and drummer Pete Nuwayser, takes the stage at the Black Cat tonight in support of the band's debut album, "Breathless."

The Jet Age, which opened for U.K. indie pop stalwarts the Wedding Present in its first show, is a very different band than the Hurricane Lamps, Tischler said.

While the Jet Age and the Lamps tread along similar musical boundaries — fuzzed-out indie rock that recalls '90s mainstays such as Superchunk — Tischler is quick to point out the fundamental difference between the two bands.

"The Hurricane Lamps wore their songs like straightjackets, and the Jet Age ... the three of us feel very comfortable with taking the song as a launchpad and seeing where we can take the song," he said.

The Lamps were local favorites in the early part of this decade. They released five albums and toured nationally five times, getting positive press from trendsetting publications like pitchforkmedia.com.

The Lamps, in one of its earliest incarnations, were one of the first bands to play the Black Cat in 1993, when the town was rocking out to other, like-minded D.C.-based bands such as Velocity Girl and the Lilys. While that movement died down for a bit, it has now seen a return with more power-pop bands arriving on the scene, the Jet Age included.

"I'm very proud of the Hurricane Lamps, but I'm trying to distance myself from [them]," he said. "The Lamps were always good, but I feel like this band is a great live band. I hope that people that dig the Lamps — and people that didn't dig the Lamps — will come out."

IT'S COME TO THIS: CBS's broadband channel Innertube debuts a new reality show beginning on Wednesday. Sounds reasonable? Uh, it involves five teenage boys who travel to California to fulfill their dream of meeting "The Price Is Right" host Bob Barker.

We Can Do Better

Aaron Sorkin is back on primetime, taking aim at ... television

DEBUT | Writer, producer and creator Aaron Sorkin cares deeply about the power of words and the future of television, and both concerns take center stage in “Studio 60 on the Sunset Strip” (10 p.m., NBC).

Clearly based on "Saturday Night Live" and its long decline into mediocrity, "Studio 60" imagines the executive producer (Judd Hirsch) of the comedy showcase storming into view during a live sketch and delivering a blistering attack on his network and the dismal state of his own show, as well as TV, comedy and pop culture in general.

After he's fired, the new network president (Amanda Peet) decides to re-energize the show by hiring two celebrated and controversial former writers (Matthew Perry and Bradley Whitford) as executive producers.

As friends, colleagues and troubled souls, Perry's and Whitford's characters have great chemistry and are instantly believable. In a single pilot, "Studio" manages to engage viewers in arguments about censorship, culture, integrity, creativity, religion, addiction, accountability and courage. Not a bad way to spend an hour watching TV. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

CLASS ACT

THE CLASS (8 p.m., CBS) commences when perky doctor Ethan (Jason Ritter) decides to surprise his fiancée by reuniting members of their third-grade class. We meet a couple of social misfits, a cranky cutup, an unfulfilled beauty married to an ex-football star and her ex-boyfriend — who lives with his mother. This ongoing reunion (from some of the talents behind "Friends") features a barrage of crisp one-liners and surprisingly dark slapstick.

IN YOUR GUTS ...

Filmmaker C.C. Goldwater profiles her grandfather in MR. CONSERVATIVE: GOLDWATER ON GOLDWATER (9 p.m., HBO). It's fascinating. But viewers hoping to understand Barry Goldwater's role in the evolution of Republican politics will have to look elsewhere.

WHAT A DUMP

Architects, engineers and artists make shelter out of rubbish on THE SCRAP HOUSE (10 p.m., National Geographic). KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

All advertisements for the sale or rental of dwelling units published in Express are subject to the federal Fair Housing Act, which makes it illegal to advertise "any preference, limitation, or discrimination because of race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status or national origin, or intention to make any such preference, limitation, or discrimination." State law forbids discrimination based on factors in addition to those protected under federal law.

Express will not knowingly accept any advertising for real estate which is in violation of the law. All persons are hereby informed that all dwellings advertised are available on an equal opportunity basis.

Studying the Antidepressant Effects of Sleep Deprivation

Sleep deprivation has rapid & brief antidepressant effects in some depressed people. NIMH is exploring how a drug that mimics the effects of sleep deprivation in the brain, may also bring about a rapid antidepressant response in people who are depressed. Understanding how this works may help us understand depression and design better antidepressants. Study includes multiple overnight stays & free sleep evaluations to rule out sleep disorders. NIMH is seeking people ages 18-60 with depression who:

- Are free of other serious medical conditions
- Do not have any sleep disorders

Transforming Government Payments:

FROM PAPER TO ELECTRONIC

In recent years, both Federal and State governments have embraced and implemented prepaid debit cards to manage the delivery of a broad range of government payments in more efficient and cost-effective ways. Examples include cards used for child support, military payments, welfare, and disaster relief payments. Prepaid debit cards used to distribute these funds run on established payment networks such as Visa®, MasterCard® Worldwide, Discover® Network, and American Express®, and have profoundly changed government payments. Users of these prepaid debit card products include Department of Defense, Department of Homeland Security, Treasury and numerous States.

The current programs as well as the many new programs slated for launch in 2007 all confirm that these products are here to stay and that adoption is growing rapidly. These products are brought to the government sector by the prepaid card industry, and the leading event for this industry is the Prepaid Card Expo.

Cowboys

Mamas, don't let your babies grow up to drive gas guzzlers

There's a new element to the sad country song that is a rodeo cowboy's life. To the raging bulls, lonely nights and lingering bruises, add high gas prices.

Fuel costs hovering around $3 per gallon are wreaking havoc on the wallets of rodeo cowboys, who often drive hundreds of miles per day in beefy pickup trucks pulling horse trailers to get to the next ground.

The image of the solitary cowboy traveling back roads may be an archetype of the modern West, but it is quickly going the way of the buffalo. These days, a rodeo cowboy is likely to share a gas-sipping economy car with three or four others.

"Hell yes!" said Fred Boettcher, a top professional bull rider, when asked if gasoline prices were affecting his season.

Scrambling to qualify for the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, Boettcher these days often parks his truck and drives rental economy cars to far-flung rodeos.

"I travel with lots of people," Boettcher said. "The more the better."

While gas prices have retreated to about $2.62 per gallon in much of the country, prices are higher in eight Western states. Spokane, Wash., drivers are paying $3.08 per gallon.

Bull rider Bret Summers competes mostly in the Northwest, but that doesn't help his bottom line much. One recent weekend he drove from Spokane to Monroe, Wash., up to Winthrop near the Canadian are too far down in the standings to make the National Finals Rodeo may cut back on their travel.

"We see more guys carpooling and riding together," she said. "Some guys fly now instead of drive. It costs the same and it's faster to fly."

Dolly Hughes, director of facilities for the Spokane County Fair, said the number of entrants at the fair's recent rodeo was down 15 percent in team roping and barrel racing, events for which the competitors must bring their own livestock.

Boettcher, of Rice Lake, Wis., has career winnings of more than $600,000 since joining the PRCA in 1995. This year he's ranked 22nd among bull riders and is struggling to break into the top 15 to qualify border and then down to Kamiah, Idaho, and then home.

That was 1,200 miles in a Dodge Ram pickup that gets 10 miles to the gallon. All to hang onto a bull for eight seconds and look good enough doing it to win some prize money.

The reason: He's 13th in bull riding in the Pro West rodeo association and only the top 12 qualify for the Pro West Finals in Omak, Wash., at the end of September.

In his first season on the rodeo circuit, Summers, 23, figures he's broken even on entry fees with $1,400 in winnings. Travel costs come out of his earnings in construction. He tries to shave those costs by packing up to seven people in his truck for trips to rodeos.

"You scrunch up as much as possible," he said.

In the past, gas prices didn't matter much when a cowboy was planning a weekend trip to a series of rodeos. Now they do.

"If you win first and can't cover your expenses, is it worth going?" said Jeanne Benson of Laurel, Mont., editor of Cowboy's Digest. "That was not a factor a couple of years ago."

Ann Bleiker of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association said it is too soon to spot the immediate impact of gas prices. Entries are not down at the major professional rodeos this summer. But she expected that some cowboys who for the big money at the National Finals on Nov. 30. He remembers paying 85 cents a gallon to fill a diesel pickup truck in 1995. Now it's $3.30 a gallon.

Boettcher has been skipping some rodeos at which the pay isn't high enough. But he can't skip too many because he needs points to qualify for the finals. "I had a great winter and a lousy summer," he said. "I have no choice but to chuck it up and go." NICHOLAS K. GERANIOS (AP)

Meryl Streep Slept Here

Tourism

Fans haven't stopped visiting the bridges of Madison County

Nobody bats an eye when a tourist heavy with cameras appears along the road in the tiny rural town of Winterset, Iowa.

More than a decade after the movie "The Bridges of Madison County" was released, thousands of people still travel to Winterset each year to trace the steps where Clint Eastwood and Meryl Streep immortalized the area's covered bridges.

Each fall, an annual Covered Bridge Festival draws crowds here, and on a typical summer day, more than 150 people stop by the county's tourism office for help finding the bridges, scattered between flat fields and wide, unpaved roads. A glance at the guest book reveals visitors from as far away as the Philippines, Argentina and Germany.

“People may come see the bridges and never step foot in [Madison County's tourism office].”

CHRIS NOLTE
DIRECTOR, COUNTY
TOURISM DEPARTMENT

“There's no admission charge and no gates, so there's no way to tell exactly how many people come. People may come see the bridges and never step foot in here,” said Chris Nolte, director of the county's tourism department.

While tourists arrive year-round, the county's signature Covered Bridge Festival showcases its famed landmarks with a sprawling two-day affair that sees the sleepy town's population rise by the thousands.

Among the attractions at the festival, taking place Oct. 14-15 this year, are an antique car show, a quilt exhibit and a craft-making contest featuring everything from pottery to ironwork to dried floral arrangements.

At the pretty red Roseman Bridge — instantly recognizable from the movie — passengers can run their fingers along the wooden planks in which the names of hundreds of couples have been carved. In the story, Roseman is where Francesca Johnson leaves a note inviting Robert Kincaid to dinner.

The 1995 movie was based on a novel of the same name by Robert James Waller. The 1992 book was on best-seller lists for three years and sold more than 12 million copies.

A third bridge mentioned in the novel, the Cedar Bridge, was destroyed by an arsonist in 2002. A replica was built in 2004.

The bridges — all listed on the National Register of Historic Places — were erected in the late 1800s and covered to save money. Replacing the roofing and shingles was cheaper than replacing the large timbers that make up the floors.

The Northside Cafe, where Kincaid was greeted with a hostile silence by locals, is unchanged. Old men in tinted glasses and overalls sit at the counter and waitresses stare blankly at strangers.

The draw of Winterset and its surrounding bridges — by no means the nation's most historic or architecturally significant — is a testament to the enduring curiosity a movie can generate.

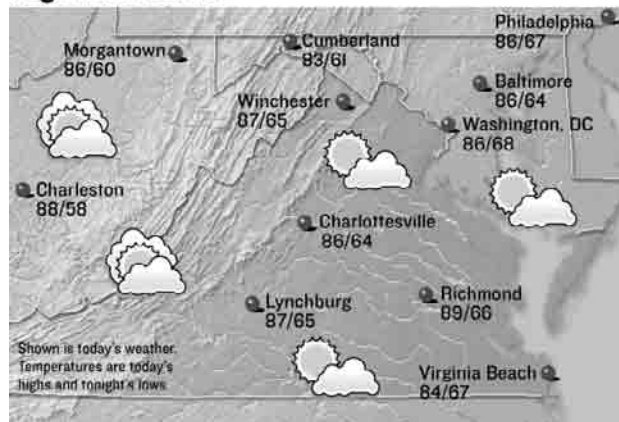

Madison County officials hardly trumpet the bridges. The county's tourism promotion budget is $15,000, and Nolte is quick to point out that money also goes toward totting Winterset as the birthplace of legendary actor John Wayne.

Fashion Week wraps, with short, swingy on the menu for spring

Thousands of outfits were paraded on the runways of New York Fashion Week as top designers previewed their collections for spring. But which look — if any — will take off?

The dress certainly was a key item, but it's hard to narrow it down further, considering that the fashion editors, retailers and stylists who often influence what the rest of us wear saw every shape from sacks to chemises. Generally, though, the idea was to keep dresses airy and light instead of fussy or tight.

Other big headlines to emerge from the eight days of fashion shows were short hemlines, spring coats, metallics for glitz instead of beads, and a very white, black and beige palette with occasional pops of blue and yellow. Graphic prints were popular, too.

There were virtually no pastels — the traditional spring-time colors — and very few pants.

"Dresses sell well," said Stephanie Solomon, Bloomingdale's fashion director, noting that dresses started to take over retail racks this past spring and are expected to do well this fall. "Trends don't have to change completely from season to season. Each season just has to morph a little bit from the one before."

So, instead of tunics with leggings, there will be minidresses (a loose shape balances the shorter length) and instead of chunky cardigans, there will be boxy jackets.

This Vera Wang number hits several spring trends — sheer layers, flowy silhouettes and the color navy.

"The range, from the clean lines of Narciso [Rodriguez] to the layers at Marc [Jacobs], encourages shopping," added Candy Pratts Price of Style.com.

No one in the fashion industry expects people to buy a full new wardrobe each season, she explained. Instead, designers are giving many options for building a bigger, more versatile closet.

There also was a noticeable effort to mix up lengths, fabrics and levels of formality on the runways. It was almost a prerequisite for each fashion show to feature at least one outfit that consisted of a long top like a tunic with a ballerina-style short sweater or a cropped jacket. There also were a lot of fancy items paired with casual ones.

"I love the trend of wearing a dressy brocade coat over something casual," said Bloomingdale's Solomon. "You always look polished."

When listing their inspirations for the season, several designers mentioned strong, independent women. That might explain why there seemed to be less skin on display.

But being bare isn't the only way to be sexy:

Layers upon layers of sheer fabric — a look spotted everywhere from Vera Wang to Marchesa — were smoldering and seductive.

Movement of fabric also was very important, which is why so many collections prominently featured jersey fabric. Wang and Michael Kors were among those who specifically said they were inspired by dancers, while Zac Posen said he studied the underwater world of Esther Williams.

Don't Auf Heidi

Everything "Project Runway" is cool, and we will hear no arguments to the contrary. So when HEIDI KLUM debuted a jewelry line on Thursday, we headed over to qvc.com. The sterling silver, 14- and 18-carat gold collection mainly depicts four-leaf clovers in the form of earrings, necklaces, bracelets or rings. The prices range from $29 to $170; we particularly liked the Clover Link Drop Earrings ($30) and the Hammered & Polished Domed Clover Ring ($87).

Kiss Me Stickily

The best thing we can say about Clinique's new FULL POTENTIAL LIPS

PLUMP AND SHINE GLOSS ($17.50)

is that it does not sting so much that you want to die. It has a Vick's Vapo-Rub tingle to it, but that's it. However, it's also sticky, goopy and smells kind of weird.

It promises "more kissable lips," which it probably delivers, since the object of your smooch will get stuck to you like a wasp on flypaper. On the plus side ... well, the colors are really pretty. We're big fans of the entire Clinique line, so it's a disappointment that this product missed the mark. K.P.K.

Fenty's 'Bringing Sexy Back'

CAPTION THIS | On Friday, Express printed a photo of a political odd couple: retiring D.C. Mayor Anthony Williams together with the man who is all but assured to replace him in January, Adrian Fenty. Remember, Williams endorsed Fenty's rival, D.C. Council Chairman Linda Cropp, in Tuesday's Democratic primary, making the Fenty-Williams appearance at a Capitol Hill hearing on Thursday somewhat awkward. When asked to send in their caption ideas, Express readers didn't disappoint. Here is a sampling of what was submitted:

"Senator, you may refer to him as Mini-Me."

"Look at this clown. He has less hair than me!"

What's D.C. Mayor Anthony Williams thinking here? Readers had some ideas.

"I smell it, too, it was him!"
"He's bringing sexy back." (But Justin Timberlake might object to that.)

"This dude thinks he is already in charge!"

"I'm with stupid."

"This guy? Really?"

Express' favorite was from D.C.

resident Emily Bahhar, who wrote: "He's got nothing on my cannonball." Fenty has pledged to continue the annual mayoral cannonball at a District swimming pool to usher in the summer public pool season. Fenty has roughly eight months to practice his water displacement skills if he wants to best Williams' trademark publicity stunt.

Grocery Contradictions

QUANDARIES | Ahhh, grocery shopping in the city. For those who stock up but are without vehicular transportation, you either have to hoof it or, as a Safeway employee suggested to blogger MISSSALMA.BLOGSPOT.COM, buy a $25 mini cart. In fact, Safeway will assemble it for you while you wait. Or not. Later, "They told me because of 'liability issues' Safeway employees could not assemble mini-carts." That sounds more like Kafkaesque consumerist CVSism. M.G.

→ Coming Up Today

Saturday's opening of the new Swiss ambassador's residence was full of surprises. Express examines the home's stunning design that's so perfectly Swiss, and also very alien to the Washington cityscape.

Live Online

Lisa de Moraes

Post columnist LISA DE MORAES was online Friday at washingtonpost.com to take a look at Meredith Vieira's debut on "Today" and all of the latest news from the world of television.

I tried to give Rosie and the new "View" a chance, but after Thursday's insipid "production number," basically a giant ad for Keebler cookies, I'm giving up. I realize we all have to deal with a certain amount of product placement, but when it involves tap-dancing men in top hats and glitter falling from the ceiling, I'm done.

Now I'm sorry I missed it. But I'm a sucker for a big production number — even if it's an advertisement — and for men in top hats and tails. Please tell me they were wearing tails, as well.

I know a lot of people like Meredith Vieira, but she seems so stiff and she also can't keep her hands off of Matt Lauer! Not to say I wouldn't, too, if I got to sit next to him every body. The whole thing seems forced. She doesn't seem to have the chemistry with Matt and the rest of the gang that Katie did. Granted, it's only her first week. What are the critics saying?

Critics seem to like her on the show — maybe because they like her to start with. I think she's doing great for a first week. But, yes, [I] wish she'd touch Matt a little less.

I've been watching "Justice" and sort of like it, but by the end it is very clear to me who really did the murder — when will they drop the end "what really happened"? Never, hopefully. I love that they show you who really did the murder at the end. It will become a game each week for viewers at home to try to guess whether they're defending an innocent person or a guilty one.

How can you tell if a show is horribly wonderful or wonderfully horrible? It's like an obscenity — you can't define it (unless you're Mr. Martin at the FCC), but you know it when you see it. For me, if a show is so bad I laugh, it's horribly wonderful. If it makes me despair that I cover TV for a living, it's wonderfully horrible.

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You've been getting away with murder lately, and very soon someone is going to ask you to explain yourself. Why not change direction this very day?

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) The pace is likely to be quicker toward midday, and you must work hard to keep everything in order. You can expect to be busy for a while.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You can feel more empowered and capable, owing to your own cooperation with those who seem to know just what you need to feel strong.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Your own unique point of view will allow you to see things in a manner that is wholly positive, despite any developments others see as negative.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You must be sure all your calculations are correct before you begin any new project that increases your own personal expenditures.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You'll enjoy a special view of the way things could be — and you'll also receive an important hint as to how you can make things happen.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You'll be far more attractive to others if you will simply rely on your own inner strength and stop trying to sell yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A subtle shift in your point of view will come in handy — and may even increase your odds of enjoying greater profits very soon.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Focus on all the things love can bring into your life. A door is likely to be opened to you, and an offer carries special meaning.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can afford to be more assertive. Bring your passion to bear, and people will believe just how much is at stake at this time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be nearing a crossroads very soon, and it's important you know, right now, just what decisions you'll be expected to make.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Being in shape is more than a distant goal — it's something you can enjoy sooner than expected, provided your mind-set is a healthy one.

Support Statehood for D.C.

WHEN I SAW THE informal poll in Friday's Express showing that 79 percent think that Adrian Fenty can't win statehood for the District, I was ashamed by the widespread pessimism and apathy about the issue. Maybe Fenty can't win it for us on his own, but with strong support from people in this region, it is a very strong possibility. Encourage your family and friends who live in other states to remind their legislators to support granting D.C. statehood because support for this must go beyond just D.C. residents. The outcome will be a reflection of how much we value our freedoms that we're fighting so hard to preserve in this war against terrorism.

—TIMOTHY RIKER

Smith Joke Out of Line

I FIND IT SICKENING that Express would allow a joke about a woman — Anna Nicole Smith — who has just lost her son ("After 365 days of respect, we will be able to make fun of ANC [sic] again.") in Thursday's paper. I don't have an opinion one way or another about Smith, but losing a 20-year-old son is devastating for anyone.

Second Autopsy Done On Anna Nicole's Son

A forensic pathologist who gained fame as a critic of the government's probe into John F. Kennedy's assassination performed a second autopsy Sunday on the son of ANNA NICOLE SMITH. Cyril Wecht said he would retrace the procedures of the local coroner's office. Wecht was accompanied by Smith's Bahamian lawyer, Michael Scott, who told reporters she had ordered the follow-up autopsy to end "media speculation surrounding the matter." (AP)

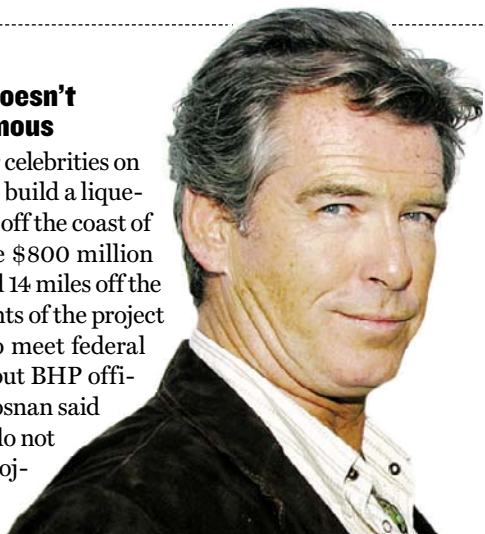

Anna Nicole Smith ordered a follow-up autopsy be performed on her son.

PROTESTS

Proposed Terminal Doesn't Sit Well With the Famous

PIERCE BROSNAN and other celebrities on Friday protested plans to build a liquefied natural gas terminal off the coast of Southern California. The $800 million terminal would be located 14 miles off the coast of Malibu. Opponents of the project said the terminal fails to meet federal clean air requirements, but BHP officials argue otherwise. Brosnan said he believes that if people do not speak out against the project now, they will regret it later. (AP)
